ANTI-BETTING BILL BEFORE SENATE TODAY

Measure May Be Killed in Committee or Reported Out—Consider Bill to Abolish Grade Crossings

HOUSE WOULD LIMIT POWER COUNTY JUDGE

By Associated Press.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 14.—Senate committee on Kentucky statutes had before it today the Bennett Anti-Pari-Mutuel bill which passed the house yesterday. The committee includes Simmons, Lyons, Kelly, Green, Hamilton, Ryans and Haselden. Discussion outside the assembly today turned on whether it would be killed in the committee or reported out. The senate today reported favorably a bill to abolish grade crossings in cities of second class. Amendements place the city's portion of expense at thirty-five per cent.

TO CURB SPREAD OF TYPHOID FEVER

State Board of Health Says Unusual Epidemic of Disease All Over Kentucky

The following request from the State Board of Health is being published throughout the state today:

Whereas, official reports from many counties in the State indicate unusual epidemics of malignant typhoid fever a serious filth disease, and of similar bowel borne diseases, including dysentry and infantile of other diarrhea; and,

Whereas, these diseases are spreading from the sick to the well only from uncared-for bowel discharges and urine;

Now Therefore, acting under the authority conferred upon it by law, the State Board of Health requests every citizen of the State, who is not a resident of a city having sanitary sewers and a safe water supply, to boil or chlorinate their drinking water unless it has been examined and pronounced safe by the state Sanitary engineer, after examination at the State Health Laboratories at Lexington or Louisville, and to provide for the installation of a sanitary privy of a type approved by this Board; and further requests that every citizen be vaccinated against typhoid fever by his or her family physician as soon as possible with the reliable vaccine material furnished free from this office, which is produced by the same formula and in the same careful manner as that which successfully protected the lives of our 5,000,000 soldiers during the World War. This is especially important to citizens who ordinarily use safe drinking water but whose duties carry them into the country districts or small towns where water is unsafe.

The attention of thoughtful citizens is called to the well established fact that more money is being wasted in Kentucky on unnecessary typhoid fever and other water borne diseases than is being expended on the maintenance of roads. Definite instructions in regard to the purification of water supplies or in the installation of privies may be secured by writing a postal card to the State Board of Health at Louisville.

Given under our hands and the Seal of the Board at Louisville this February 11, 1924.

NO STREET WORK IN BAD WEATHER

Workmen Overhauling Machinery—To Renew Construction Early In Spring

Workmen of the Humbard Construction company are spending the time now mainly in overhauling the machinery for work when weather conditions permit it. The firm has a number of jobs here which have not been completed and expects to renew the work in the spring.

On such fair days as this street construction work should be done but, without assurance of it continuing even throughout the day, it is not best policy to begin the work.

Construction of catch basins for the city at Ashbury avenue and a few other small jobs are in progress though nothing is being done on the unfinished street building program.

HOBOES COME TO TOWN PREPARED FOR BREAKING JAIL

Jailers in some cities have facetiously accused of keeping a supply of rope for the convenience of prisoners who tire of involuntary confinement. This, it is said, eliminates the necessity of tearing the sheets into strips as has been done in the past.

Two men who were confined here recently, however, evidently knew that such conditions do not exist here. They brought with them a rope about twenty feet long, according to Herbert Ball who arrested them for hoboing. The men, John Sullivan and Hal Malvey, claimed they were professional rope dancers and that the rope was a tool of the trade. They were given a small jail sentence for hoboing.

EDMONDS BOUND TO GRAND JURY

Man Accused of Killing Hiram Honeycutt Friday Night Not Allowed Bail

Vernon Edmonds was held to the grand jury without bail at the conclusion of the examinating trial before County Judge J. S. Bingham this morning. He is charged with shooting and mortally wounding Hiram Honeycutt at the latter's home Friday night.

Perhaps the most damaging testimony against the defendant was that given by Mrs. Kate Honeycutt, widow of the victim. She claimed that Edmonds fired the fatal shots. Her story of the shooting was in many respects like that she gave the officers Saturday morning. Asked why she did not state that it was Edmonds immediately after the occurence, she said that she had realized since that Edmonds was the marauder.

She stated that the intruder's face was black and his hands white and that he wore a light overcoat, light scarf and light shoes.

Jess Hatton and Frank Crabtree, officers who made the arrest, testified. Mr. Hatton stated that he went to the home of the defendant that the latter's mother opened the door and quickly shut it when she saw the officers. The officers testified that Edmonds had some black on his face Saturday morning when the arrest was made.

James Goodman, his sons, Theodore and Charles, Jim Lawless, Mary Sneed and Charlie Carroll, persons who were first on the scene after the shooting, testified but were not able to throw much light on the matter. Charles Carroll stated that the axe, identified by Mrs. Honeycutt as the one with which she had attacked the intruder was found at his door.

The defendant took the stand yesterday afternoon and continued his testimony at the morning session of the hearing. He gave an acount of his movements from the time he had been at the Honeycutt home Friday morning until his arrest Saturday morning. He told of being at various places in Middlesboro during the afternoon of his visit to the Marsee home early in the evening and of his return home about 8 o'clock Friday night.

He testified that he went to bed soon after he got there and that he was awakened at 12:30 by his brother-in-law, Jake Profitt, when the latter returned from work at the mines. He did not awake again until the officers came Saturday morning, he stated.

Barton Crosby and P. D. Lee, bus drivers, testified that the defendant had ridden their cars Friday evening and that he had left busses at Columbia, near his home, each time.

Jake Proffitt, Yellow Creek miner, testified that he had come home at 12:30 Saturday morning and that Edmonds was in bed. Proffitt stated that he slept with Edmonds the remainder of the night and that in the latter had left the bed during the time it was without his knowledge. He admitted on cross examination that he was a sound sleeper.

Defendant's sister and his mother testified that Edmonds remained at home Friday night.

Ben Golden represented the commonwealth in the case while the court appointed Arthur Rhorer as counsel for the defendant. An unusually large crowd was present during the entire session, there being hardly standing room this morning.

Missing Youth Was Seen Here About Christmas, Reports Say

Gus Ansley, the youth who has been the subject of inquiries from Ashburn, Ga., was here on December 30, according to Salvation army records, and went from here to Cincinnati.

Records show that he was furnished breakfast and supper by the Salvation Army. Capt. J. F. Steinhour says that the boy came here from Knoxville and declared his intention of going to Cincinnati. He mentioned the firm of Proctor and Gamble there with which he had been employed and it is believed he returned there for work. Ansley was in good health here, clean and well dressed, but had no money.

Capt. Steinhour has notified the Cincinnati headquarters of the Salvation Army to attempt to locate the youth there. The organization keeps on file records of all persons to whom they render service and has been instrumental in locating many missing relatives.

Tim West, railroad man, said that he had seen an Ansley dropped near Christmas time who answered to the description of Ansley. The boy told him he was from Georgia and said that he was going to Lynch to get work.

The boy's mother has been notified of both of these reports.

GOT EIGHTH INTEREST IN OIL COMPANY FOR NOTHING

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—John C. Schaffer, newspaper publisher, today told the senate oil committee that Secretary Fall told him the same month he entered the cabinet three years ago that he intended to lease the Teapot Dome to Harry Sinclair. At that time the Teapot Dome was not under Fall's jurisdiction. Shaffer related how he got one-eighth interest in a Standard Oil subsidiary affiliated with the Teapot Dome and gave nothing in return. Shaffer testified he did not demand an eighth interest but "just urged it." It appeared Shaffer owned some land adjoining the Teapot and he threw in his interest with other interests in order to get in on the Teapot if it ever opened for development.

QUAINT OLD LETTERS IN FLORENCE, KY., COLLECTION

CINCINNATI, Feb. 14.—An old letter, mailed prior to the invention of envelopes and before the United States used postage stamps, was conspicuous among a prize collection of old letters and stamps on exhibition at the Cincinnati postoffice recently. The collection belonged to Mr. and Mrs. Orville Worster, Florence, Ky.

Another unique exhibit was the bar bill rendered to the grandfather of Mrs. Worster's mother, in 1820. The bill shows that in three days the recipient partook of a number of drinks and purchased a pint of liquor, all of which cost him 37 cents. Brandy and whiskey were listed at two drinks for six and a quarter cents.

Another letter bears the date 1839 transmission was Jews Kl abeas it and probably was delivered by the old pony express. The cost of its transmission was eighteen and three-quarters cent.

ABOLISHING THE PARI-MUTUEL

Many persons in this section are particularly gratified with the action taken yesterday in the lower house of the General Assembly in passing the Bennett bill which repeals the law permitting betting on the pari-mutuel machines. If the Senate passes this bill and it is signed by the governor, the pari-mutuels will be abolished and the blot of legalized gambling will be erased from Kentucky's face.

There are several reasons for the state to congratulate itself on this matter. First, and probably foremost, it shows that we are getting out from under the control of the Kentucky Jockey Club which has dominated Kentucky legislation, no matter which party was in power, for such a length of time. If this bill goes through it is a distinct step and will pave the way for abolishment of other evils.

Then, on the other hand, with the pari-mutuel abolished, we can stop trying to explain to outsiders, or insiders, for that matter, why the state legalizes race-track gambling and prohibits craps, shooting, or lotteries, or the rest of the kinds of gambling. To most of us it seems far more dishonorable to drag horse-racing, perhaps the most exhilirating of all of the sports, down to the place where it is nothing but an occasion for wholesale gambling—far more dishonorable than for a group of negroes who don't know any better any way, to throw dice for pennies in an alley.

It's all in the way of thinking, of course. But Middlesboro people think they approve the House's action and are watching closely to see the Senate follow suit.

WHY DO PEOPLE FEAR PRESIDENTIAL YEAR?

When business was below normal in past presidential years, this condition was due to some underlying economic cause and not to the fact that a President was to be elected, it is pointed out by Congressman Martin L. Davey, of Ohio, writing in the Nation's Business, the organ of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

"Since 1880 there have been five lean presidential years and five fat ones. In 1920 there were six months of bad business," he points out.

A summary of business conditions in presidential years since 1880 follows:

1880—Business approximately 10 percent above normal. Had receded very slightly from this high point and went up slightly after the first of the following year.

1884—Business had started downward the later part of 1883. By the beginning of 1884 it was 10 per cent below normal, but it came back a little up until the middle of the year and then continued steadily downward until it reached nearly 20 per cent below normal by the middle of 1885. The downward trend of 1884 continued.

1888 Began a little below normal. By June it was about 8 per cent below normal. From that point it moved steadily upward until it reached about normal near the end of the year. The business movement seemed to ignore the presidential election completely.

1892 Ten percent above normal and continued at this rate until the middle of 1893.

1896 Business had slumped to below normal by the fall of 1896. Although there was a slight upward tendency after the election, business was still about 12 or 13 per cent above normal by the middle of 1897, and continued above normal until the beginning of 1899. The free silver campaign probably had some direct bearing on the volume of business.

1900 Business began above normal and declined, moderately, to about 5 per cent above normal the first of 1901. Then business moved up to about 5 per cent above normal by the middle of that year. Business apparently proceeded without the slight est regard for the election.

1904 Depression the latter half of 1903, and during 1904 business moved generally upgrade with a slight reaction in the middle of the year. This did not quite go back as far as the depression of 1903, but continued steadily and rapidly, upward from the middle of 1904 for a period of about three years. 1904 apparently ignored the election altogether.

1908 In 1907 bad times had continued until the middle of 1908, when business started upgrade. It started up several months before the election.

1912. In 1911 business was a little below normal, but in 1912 business ran from 5 to 10 per cent above normal.

1916. Business between 10 and 20 per cent above normal, due to demands of war and general economic conditions. Presidential year ignored.

1920. Business poor last half of the year, but became worse and worse after election until it reached the lowest level about the middle of 1921. Slight recovery until spring of 1922. 1920, therefore, did not cause bad business as business became worse after the election. Depression due to underlying economic causes.

SCOUTING MAKES GIRLS THE BEST CITIZENS

"A girl who has had Girl Scout training will make the best type of citizen in the future city and State," says Rear Admiral W. S. Sims, U. S. N., whose two daughters are both ardent Scouts.

"She has been brought up with the idea of being useful in an intelligent way to her village, her town, her city, her State, her country. These citizenship ideals are not mere abstractions—they are crystalized in practical demonstration throughout the year. Take for example, the Girl Scouts of a certain troop in a small suburban town of New York who in studying for their Citizenship Badges, found that their schools served no lunches to the children.

"Why shouldn't we do it?' said they, and forthwith they did. They marketed and bought the food, they prepared, cooked and served it to all the children in the school where this particular troop was in attendance.

"Scouting emphasizes the domestic activities and interests of a girl's life. Many a girl has scorned her mother's kitchen until, as a Scout, she has learned that it is not drudgery but fun, alive' to learn to cook a simple meal and set the table correctly. Many a girl has made her first buttonhole in order to pass the second-class test in Scouting. But, the old-fashioned mothers have for centuries been trying to teach these homely accomplishments and instill these principles into their daughters.' This is true, and it is to help the mothers in their important and unending task that the Scout movement has utilized three important and characteristic principles of modern education."—Scout Headquarters.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE WORLD

Investigations — German "Boner" — British Labor

Congress is having a regular orgy of investigations.

It's a presidential year—each side hopes, by investigating the other, to improve its own campaign chances.

The investigations hit the Republicans hardest, because being in power, they have most to lose.

All the Democrats risk is damage to their plans for getting back into power.

The Progressive bloc, as the balance of power group, hopes to profit, whoever else suffers.

Not but what the investigations are a good thing anyway. When politicians fall out—well' there's an old saying fits the situation.

Oil the Big Thing

The oil inquiry is the big investigation.

W. G. McAdoo says dragging his name into it has done him a great injustice. He declares any Doheny money his firm accepted was for honest law work.

People who know much about the case believe this.

But will that save McAdoo's presidential boom? Echo answers very skeptically.

Denby Stands Pat

No politician thinks President Coolidge will demand Secretary of the Navy Denby's resignation. It would be too much of a confession of weakness. And Denby has said already he won't resign voluntarily. Nor is impeachment likely—he's accused of nothing worse than carelessness. But despite denials, Denby's resignation is expected.

Other Inquiries

Another oil inquiry has been ordered. It relates to oil prices.

Why are they so high? Also gasoline?

Then there's the Liberty Bond inquiry. The story is that a lot of these bonds were issued in duplicate. That is, every time a bond was printed, it's charged, another one just like it was run off. The government got the money for the first one, but the suspicion is that somebody else pocketed the price of the second. They can't be told apart, so now it's up to the government to redeem both of them.

The Shipping Board, too, is due to be investigated. And there are half a dozen others.

Germany's Ambassador

It's reported German Ambassador Wieldfeldt is going to resign. It wasn't his fault he didn't halfmast his flag when Woodrow Wilson died. He was obeying orders. They say he wants to go back to work for the Krupps anyway—he can make more money.

Rebels Beaten?

When General De la Huerta, Mexican rebel leader, skipped from Vera Cruz, he said he was just moving to handier headquarters. Most people think he left because he had to—that President Obregon has the rebels about beaten.

Not So Crazy

Ramsay Macdonald, England's Labor premier, is asking King George to "create" some new "lords." Some people say this is because Labor is as crazy about titles as anybody. It isn't that at all. Suppose, in this country, the Republicans could get a Senate majority, over the Democrats and Progressive bloc, by having President Coolidge "create" some new Republican senators! Some votes in the House of Lords is what English Labor wants.

Orlando Mixed

George as saying President Wilson and Premier Clemenceau made a secret pact at the Versailles peace conference, allowing France to occupy the Rhineland. Count Orlando, who represented Italy at Versailles, says it's a fact—the Lloyd George interview is true. But in the meantime Lloyd George has declared it isn't true—the paper faked it. The Italians have claimed all along they got the worst of the treaty and probably through this was a good chance to prove it.

A Valentine

By BERTON BRALEY

It's Leap Year now, oh Lady Mine,
(I wish you were, I wish you were)
And "Will you be my Valentine?"
Is not a question, I aver,
Which I should ask of you; nay nay,
The thing should go the other way.

It's Leap Year now, and I opine
It is your turn to beg and plead,
With "Will you be my Valentine,"
To which I ought to give no heed;
(You've never heeded plea of mine
Nor said you'd be my valentine.)

It's Leap Year now, your turn to cry
"Oh, won't you be my Valentine?"
And 'twould be only fair were I
To turn away and give no sign,
But should you ask me, I must state
You wouldn't have too long to wait.

It's Leap Year now, but I know this,
You will not follow out that line;
You will not say, "Oh, give me bliss,
I prithee be my Valentine."
If I should wait that word from you
I'd wait and wait my whole life thru.

Yet I am proud, who once was meek,
I put it thus, "Twould be thine;
It's Leap Year now, your turn to speak,
But I will be your Valentine
Whether you ask or not, my dear,
This year—or any other year."

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—See-sawing seven days and seven nights up and down Broadway and through the highways and byways of Washington, I saw "Jealous Husbands," one of those films which the industry grinds out every so often as moron fodder. Jane Novak in it seemed a very effective player..... Saw, or rather, heard Waring's "Pennsylvanians," a jazz band of talented ex-collegians. Already the equal of more famous bands, this organization if kept intact will be one of the country's leading orchestras within a few years and their best selections are "Sleep" and "Stack o' Lee".....

Saw Gilbert Emery, Louise Huff and others in "The New Englander," a play characterized by the author, Abby Merchant, as "a study of New England character." The title is the biggest mistake connected with this latest venture of the Equity Players. The battle of a mother to save her son from his extravagant and irresponsible career might have been as characteristic of Seattle as of Boston .....

Saw an engraver stop in his work, take off his hat and lift his voice in "The strife is o'er the battle won," as the Sunday church bells in Washington tolled the passing of Woodrow Wilson. Just one of those little pictures which linger long through the years .....

Saw Edna Ferber's new book, "So Big." Reading not complete, but so far it seems to be lit with Miss Ferber's usual fervo for songs without words, for the beauties that bloom inwardly without ever reaching the lips.....Saw Glenn Hunter, dashing, yet modest young nabob of screen and stage, who seems destined to go on and on forever as Merton.....Saw Villiard's article about Woodrow Wilson in "The Nation." Although the sense of it is slightly out of balance it is one of the finest bits of writing I have read in many moons. .....

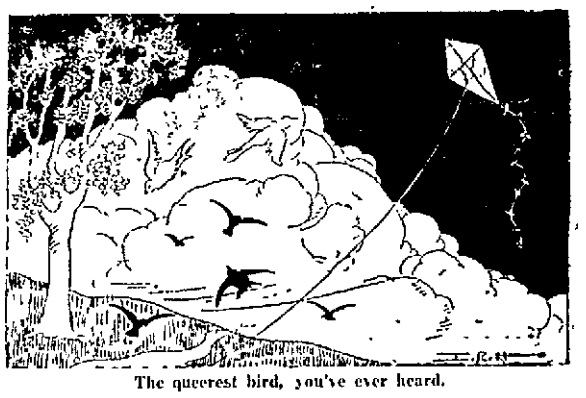
Of recent books this writer prefers "Riceyman's Steps," "The Owl's House," "The Midlander," "The Snob," "A Lost Lady," "The Rover" and "The Story of the Bible."

Current plays which seem best are "Outward Bound," "The Miracle," "The Goose Hangs High," "Sun Up," "Cyrano de Bergerac," "Roseanne,"

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton

THIS RIDDLE IS A FLIGHTY ONE



The queerest bird, you've ever heard.

"This is such a windy day," said the Riddle Lady, "that I thought we would better have a windy riddle. That is, a riddle that can't go without wind and lots of it."

"Is it snow?" asked Tommy Tittlemouse, who lived in the little house. "It says, 'Blow wind, blow, and we shall have snow and what will the robin do then, poor thing?'"

"That's true,' said the Riddle Lady. "But although this riddle is a sort of bird, it has nothing to do with either snow or robins.

"But perhaps if you hear the riddle, Tommy, you may guess it after all, and get the prize."

"I hope so," sighed Tommy. "I haven't had a prize yet. And the Twins have had about a dozen."

"We'll keep still," offered Nick generously. "And I'm sure you can guess it."

So the Riddle Lady began:

"The queerest bird,
You've ever heard!
Hasn't got a feather.
Yet he flies
Up in the skies
In gusty, windy weather.

"He's very light
For such a flight,
O'er chimney tops and spires,
But near the ground,
He can't get 'round,
Gets caught on trees and wires

"He'll never learn,
The way to turn,
Flies just straight ahead,
When off he goes,
Behind his nose,
Comes back tail first instead.

"In windy weather,
We play together,
My paper bird and I,
I hold the string,
And watch him spring
Straight up to the sky.

"Doesn't need
A grain of seed
Never eats a thing;
Never winks,
Never drinks,
Never flaps a wing!

"His tail is long,
And firm and strong,
Flutters far behind him,
I'm glad it's there,
For I know where
To look when I would find him.

"He'd go and go
When breezes blow,
And ride off on a cloud,
But for the string,
Tied neath his wing,
To roam he's not allowed."

"I've guessed it. It's a kite!" cried Tommy.

Everybody rejoiced at Tommy's good luck.

New Lamps For Old

"New lamps for old! New lamps for old!"
Unto my heart I cried;
"My heart that burned white candles at
The shrine of dreams denied.

"Put out the tapers of regret
And kindle in their place
The light of hope, that shining through
Makes glory on the face.

"Too long, too long, remembered loss
Has fed a broken pride—
New lamps for old! New lamps for old!"
Unto my heart I cried.

As one who leaves familiar ways
For untried paths without,
Half eager, half reluctantly,
I blew my candles out.

Then swift upon that inner shrine
A sudden glory shone,
A singing wonder mocked the pain
My troubled heart had known.

By hope illumined, every thought
Became the thing I willed—
And one by one, as stars are born,
My dreams came back, fulfilled.

IS MARRIAGE A TRAGEDY OR A JOKE? CLASSMATES IN ITS TANGLE WANT TO FIND OUT

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Feb. 13.—Is marriage a joke or a tragedy?

Two young students here—one a pretty girl of humble home, the other a dashing boy of wealth and influence—are wondering. For their futures depend on their finding out. They have appealed to the courts for judgment. And now their case is before the Supreme Court of the state—on which sits the father of the boy.

The actors in this drama of real life are:

Ann Victoria Shakespeare, the daughter of a former mill worker, who now runs a little confectionery store in this small college town. Her father worked hard to give her the best of everything—and she got it. She became one of the most popular students in the West Virginia University.

Jamison Meredith, the son of Judge aJmes A. Meredith of Charlestoti, member of the Supreme Court of Appeals of the state. The family is prominent and wealthy. The boy mingled in the best society and became a lion on the university campus.

The boy and girl met. They became close friends.

Their Secret Gets Out

On Aug. 14, 1922, they went out for an automobile ride. According to the story told in court, there was a proposal of marriage and an acceptance. They drove on and got a marriage license, declaring that they were 21 years old, although they were only 19.

A visit to a church, a consultation with a pastor, a ceremony—and a promise not to tell a soul.

The pledge of secrecy continued for two days and then the story leaked out. The elder Mereditns got busy. They started court action for an annulment.

"The mariage was entered into as a jest, and we never intended to fulfill the marriage vows," the boy is reported as saying.

But the girl has another view.

"We were serious and I still am serious," she says. "I was and am ready and willing to take my place at Jamison's side and appear before the world."

Continuing, the attractive little girl declares that the ceremony was "not entered into in the exhuberance of youth and as a college boy and girl prank" as is alleged in the court action.

What About the Girl?

"All this has caused me untold embarrassment and now they want to have the marriage annulled for his sake," she went on with tears in her eyes. "But what about me?"

Whe nthe case came up in the Circuit Court of Monongalia county the judge refused to annul the marriage.

Now the case is being carried to the higher courts—and the boy's father is one of its members!

While it is making up its mind, both the young principals are continuing their studies at the university; both are taking prominent part in the activities of the campus. They sit in the same class rooms, have the same friends—yet they are as strangers to each other.

For the boy sees the situation as a joke.

But the girl sees it as a tragedy.

LONDON—The Chinese foot is the London woman's latest fad. Without that little tiptoeing walk, all the effect of the new oriental gowns would be lost. Don't Lose Sight of the Food Value of Your Bakings

Plain flour has a large amount of food value but it must be combined with good baking powder in order to retain this value.

Most self rising flours are not successful because they do not raise the bakings to the proper lightness. This means a certain loss of nutrition because they are heavy and hard to digest.

Every time you eat food that does not properly digest you do not get the full nutritional value—you are over-taxing your stomach. Nourishing and perfect bakings are what good health demands. The one sure way is—use pure flour and good baking powder.

If you want to find what thousands of housewives have learned—make some biscuits with self-rising flour—then make some with good plain flour and Calumet Baking Powder—notice the great difference. One trial will satisfy you. Your health demands that you make the experiment.

Those who know—millions of housewives, domestic science teachers, big hotels, restaurants, bakeries and railroads will not use anything but Calumet, the Economy Baking Powder.

Play safe—use Calumet and plain flour. It is the most economical and satisfactory where light, wholesome and pure foods are desired.

GIRLS DEMAND RETURN OF CHIVALRY WANT MORE RESPECT FROM YOUTHS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Add chivalry to your list of possible comebacks.

Mothers, daughter and teachers are banding for a nation-wide campaign to restore mid-Victorian courtesies. At the head is Mrs. Giles Scott Rafter, district president of the Congress of Mothers. She declares the usual manifestations of gallantry are practically forgotten by the youth of today, and is asking the National Congress of Mothers, parent-teacher organizations and high school girls' societies to lead boys back to politeness.

Mrs. Rafter charges:

Boys do not observe the old courtesies when with girls.

They fail to remove their hats when greeting women.

They resort to familiarities forbidden a decade ago.

They "paw over" their girl acquaintances; grab their arms at first meeting, slap their backs and are otherwise boisterous.

They lack respect for elders.

Courtesy Rules

And the girls of Washington, under the leader of Louise Braswell, Central high school senior, are getting in line to combat this result of the "new freedom." Their platform contains the following rules of decorum for shiek callers:

"Always remove the hat when greeting a girl and bow while so doing.

"Stand at attention while talking to girls and their elders.

"Wait until recognized before speaking.

"Engage in no familiarities uninvited.

"Stop smoking in the presence of girls until permitted.

"Answer questions politely and respectfully."

LOUISE BRASWELL OF WASHINGTON, D. C., A LEADER IN THE CAMPAIGN FOR THE RETURN OF CHIVALRY.

Not Boy's Fault

"I don't think it's the boy's fault," says Louise. "It's probably the outcome of the war when men saluted. Now the boys touch the front of their hats, often grudgingly, instead of giving the graceful bow their fathers were taught to give.

"Respect for girls is often measured by the attitude of the boy.

"The successful man is he who observes the courtesies which the women have a right to expect. The discourteous is always shunned.

"Boys should remember this and train themselves accordingly."

ALVARO OBREGON, PRESIDENT OF MEXICO IS DISILLUSIONED MAN; WELCOMES SUCCESSOR

CLAYO, Guanajuato, Mexico, Feb. 14.—Lines, deep-carved upon the face of Alvara Obregon, draw graphically the picture of what the president of Mexico has undergone within the past few months.

He has victoriously stood off the inroads of revolution and disruption, but care and disillusion have been conquering him.

He is a tired man, grown gray before his time; a tired man waiting for the time to come when he can turn over his work to younger and stronger hands.

I found him here, in those last Adolpho de la Huerta was preparing to pack up his rebels and move from Vera Cruz.

For three days he had not left his train. For hours at a time he would pace the observation car platform, only to rush into another section of the train for a conference. There seemed to be an endless round of conferences—conferences that will determine the fates of some 15,000 000 people.

New Figure Looms

It is an easy guess that the name of Pietro Laurens was often mentioned at these. For Pietro Laurens was the man behind that recent revolution—a name to remember, for it will come out of Mexico many times in the future. Laurens is mayor of the City of Mexico.

He would be a strong contender for the presidency, but he is too young. So he chose to make himself the power behind the throne, if possible. He could not drive Obregon, so he sought a tool for his ambitious schemes. Thus the late revolt, and thus Adolpho de la Huerta, who knew his chances as a candidate would be slim and took to arms.

But, to Obregon, this uprising was but a drop in an already bitter cup. An idealist, a builder of dreams, Obregon found himself facing hard facts and prepared himself to face them.

Clash Inevitable

He had been elected to ofice by a party comprising radicals of many opinions, and there was much dissatisfaction among the extreme left wing because communism was not espoused. Laurens was leader of the radicals—and so the inevitable clash.

Generals of the federal forces, who fancied they might gain personal advantages from a successful revolt, were taken into the conspiracy.

Of abstract loyalty, the average Mexican has no conception.

The soldier is loyal to his immediate superior—not to his government; a government that to him is but a thing of words.

Add to that, a supreme desire to be on the winning side, and you have a perfect condition for a rebellion, should the heads of the army prove disloyal to the government.

But a tired man—a disillusioned man—a man who hoped to do great things for his people—has had new lines of care graven on his face; has had years added to his age; is only waiting the time when he can turn over his work to younger and stronger hands.

REDPATH MAGICIANS HERE TOMORROW NIGHT

The Duval Brothers, well-known magicians, will appear on the local Lyceum course Friday evening, in an amazing program consisting of mystery, sleight of hand and baffling illusions.

From beginning to end their program abounds in originality and clever surprises. Every "stunt" is replete with clean, riotous fun, presented always with refreshing enthusiasm and with an accompaniment of sparkling quips and jokes.

The Duvals are among the two youngest practicioners of the magic art appearing before the public. Through their persistent and successful efforts they have won a high place in their profession, and are making countless friends, both old and young, among audiences where they appear as entertainers.

This is a Redpath attraction which guarantees high quality. The proceeds from this entertainment go to the school library. Tickets are on sale by the Junior-Senior high school pupils, school children 25c, adults 50c.

BROADWAY'S MERRY-GO-ROUND RUNS ON AS ANOTHER BUTTERFLY PAYS LIFE

LOUISE LAWSON — DOT KING

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—In a notorious Broadway cabaret a table is vacant for the first time in years. It stands as a silent tribute to the queen that once reigned over it—nightly.

For down the steep trail blazed by Dot King and other Broadway Butterflies who paid their tolls with death, has gone 24-year-old Louise Lawson. She came from Walnut Springs, Texas, to make her way in the big city—and ended in its morgue!

In the wake of her brutal murder in a costly apartment on the West Side just off Central Park, comes the usual sensation involving wealthy men prominent in financial and social circles. There are stories of wild nights, champagne parties, week-end trips to the country, and "heavy-sugar" daddies.

But soon there will be another queen, and Broadway will forget. For the mad merry-go-round whirls on.... And on....

But down in Walnut Springs they will never forget. For the Lawsons, prominent in the little Texas town, sent their girl north to develop her career.

She was talented, both as musician and actress. Her family had high hopes of seeing her name blazed forth over some theatre or concert hall.

But in the six years that she was here she did not get more than half a dozen theatrical engagements—none of which were of more than minor importance.

Her musical training was a bit more successful. Through her playing she made many friends—some of whom are prominently mentioned in the investigation of her murder.

Her life became a gay one. She moved into a three-room apartment in the fashionable "Monastery"—opposite the Museum of Natural History. There she had a colored maid come in at 11 o'clock in the morning to awaken her and give her breakfast. For her parties usually broke up late.

But one morning there was no awakening her. This is what the colored maid found:

Her mistress, dressed in a blue dressing gown, lying strangled in her bed, neath a pink blanket; her white wire-haired terrier pet "Texie" tied up in another room; drawers upset; papers standing on the ice-box; photographs thrown down on the red drape over the piano.

Among these was one of Gerhard M. Dahl, former vice president of the Chase National Bank, now a broker and chairman of the Executive Committee of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Company.

His was the first name dragged into the case. He is more than 50 years old, prominent in social life and married. His wife is away in Florida.

"I have known Miss Lawson and her mother for some time," he says. "she was a young woman of excellent family, personal charm and exceptional musical promise."

Police believe the motive of the crime to be robbery. But Broadway's whisperings tell of other things.

They tell of lavish presents, wealthy admirers, limousines that drove up to her door daily, night revels and expensive excursions.

Miss Lawson was on the Angier B. Duke party when the heir of the $5,000,000 was drowned in Long Island Sound last September.

Her tragedy closely parallels that of Dot King, Broadway favorite, who was found murdered ten months ago in an apartment just a mile away from Miss Lawson's.

Both girls were well known along the White Way. Both girls were found murdered in bed. Both were believed to have been killed by a man. Both knew wealthy persons. Both were young and pretty.

But King's murder never has been solved.

But the police say they are "on" getting to the bottom of the new mystery. Perhaps they will.

But it won't do the family down in Walnut Spring much good. Their child is cold and their happiness is shattered.

Hide of Damnable Lie Nailed to Barn Door!

Some unprincipled person or persons have given currency to an INFAMOUS LIE anent the advent of the Great Blackstone Show coming to the Mauring Theatre next Monday matinee for a two-day engagement. The tenor of this UNMITIGATED FALSEHOOD alleges that the GREAT BLACKSTONE himself will not appear in person and that the attraction is a Number Two company sent out under the GREAT BLACKSTONE trade name.

A BRAND THIS DIABOLICAL MONSTER OF INTRIGUE A Deliberate and Atrocious Prevarication, sponsored by interests disgruntled by the fact that the ENTERLACE ATTRACTION has NEVER played for THIS theatre and with the evident aim to mislead and deceive the theatregoing public of this city and its environs. This evil report claims as its basis the fact that for several seasons The Great Blackstone Show has appeared only in cities where $2.00 prices were in vogue and that THE GREATEST MAGICIAN THE WORLD HAS EVER KNOWN could not appear elsewhere than at such prices. Vile traducers acted upon an UNcontrovertible Fact and Twisted FALSE deduction to their NEFARIOUS ENDS. True, The Great Blackstone has exhibited his entertainments in the higher-priced playhouses but, believing that appearance, in theatres with larger seating capacities and with more numerous performances at popular reduced prices, will not only be attended by greater financial profits but by a hugely enlarged clientele, The Great Blackstone comes to the Mauring IN PERSON and with his ENTIRE, BIG-NUMBER ONE, LARGE CITY, and only organization.

TO ANY ONE WHO WILL PROVE THAT THE GREAT BLACKSTONE HIMSELF does NOT appear at any one performance during the local engagement I WILL PAY $1,000 IN CASH.

The LAW OF LIBEL will be invoked to deal with the perpetrators of this scurrilous attack on the business probity of the GREAT BLACKSTONE and the management of this theatre. LET THIS BE WARNING to other VULTURES who revel in the offal of CARRION GOSSIP, and LET THE PUBLIC REMEMBER THAT THE GREAT BLACKSTONE and HIS ENTIRE ENTOURAGE COME IN TRIUMPH FOR YOUR EDIFICATION and DELIGHT, unhampered, undismayed and firm in his faith in the COMMON SENSE OF THEATREGOERS.

D. C. SELLERS PRESENTS LETTERS FROM PROMINENT LOCAL MEN ENDORSING HIM FOR CHIEF OF POLICE

Middlesboro, Kentucky.
January 2, 1924.

The Hon. Mayor and Commissioners,
Middlesboro, Kentucky.
Gentlemen:

We understand that Mr. D. C. Sellers is an applicant for the position of Chief of Police of this city.

We have known Mr. Sellers for ten years, and believe if elected to this office that he would enforce the law without fear or favor to any one, which would be a great help in making our city a better city to live in.

We praise the police force for their good work in the past, but if a change must come, we want a fearless, cool-headed man in charge, and feel that you should carefully consider Mr. Sellers before passing his application.

Respectfully,
Frank Davis.

Sarah Elizabeth Bolton

Sarah Elizabeth Bolton was born June 25th, 1837.

Profesed faith in Christ in early life, united with Baptist Church at Bob Camp, afterwards moved her membership to Cumberland Gap, from there to Frst Baptist Church of Middlesboro, Ky. Remained a faithful member until the summons of death called her home, Jan. 2nd, 1924,

United in marriage to J. M. Martin at the age of 20 years. To this union ten children were born, three of whom preceded her to the grave. She leaves to mourn her loss two sons, Buck and Milt Martin of Cumberland Gap, Tenn. Five daughters, Josephine Cook, Evelyn Snavely of Middlesboro, Ky., Laura Harrell and Dora Brooks of Ewing, Va. Nora Combs of Wautauga, Va. Two brothers, W. M. Bolton of Middlesboro, Ky. and D. M. Bolton of Harrogate, Tenn. Forty-four grandchildren, and a host of relatives and friends.

Her husband departed this life November 15th, 1914 leaving her to battle life alone. But the tender hands of her own made life pleasant and comfortable to her. The last two years of her life she made her home with her granddaughter, Mrs. M. O. Brooks, who patiently administered to every need till her spirit flew away to God who gave it.

She was dearly loved by all who knew her. Though she be dead she speaketh, in the heart of the dear children no doubt there are many sweet words of advice that will linger with you to life's journeys end. In her last days she still clung to the hope professed in early life. In Services held in the home for her, she rejoiced, and in her talk she said, "Talking of Jesus and Heaven was her only joy."—Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord, Yea, henceforth they do rest from their labors and their work do follow them. She will be greatly missed in the home, the vacant chair can never be filled, but she is rejoicing in Heaven with all redeemed ones gone before.

Weep not dear ones don't let your sad hearts stop at the tomb, for there the frail body only sleeps to await the great resurrection morning.

Funeral services were held in the home by her nephew, Wint Bolton, and Sam P. Martin, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Middlesboro, Ky.

Interment in Harrogate Cemetery,

A Niece,
LAURA BOLTON.

"Toughest Man" and Klan Rule in Herrin

HERRIN, Ill., Feb. 14.—Here's a one-minute conversation with S. Glenn Young, whom the Ku Klux Klan imported for a bootleg cleanup of Herrin, center of troubles in "bloody Williamson" county.

Q. Where's the mayor?

A. Locked up.

Q. Where's the sheriff?

A. In jail charged with murder.

Q. Where's the council?

A. I haven't seen them. They are not bothering.

Q. And the deputy constable is dead and the chief deputy sheriff seriously wounded?

A. Yes.

Q. Well, you are just about the whole works then? You hear complaint about dangerous sidewalks, gather evidence in criminal cases and enforce the law?

A. That's just about it.

Young was appointed chief of police by the assistant chief of police. He is virtual dictator here.

Young's cleanup began three months ago. More than 400 cases were awaiting trial as a result of his raids.

"Don't get it in your head that I am a fanatical prohibitionist," he explains. "I believe in honest law enforcement. Every raid I made was legally made. The best citizens and I have been doing what the regularly constituted authorities failed to do.

"Everything went along fine until they brutally murdered Constable Cagle. If we were not decent, law-abiding citizens we would have real trouble here right now. But we preferred to let the law take its course."

Young is the "toughest man in the United States" or "the bravest, best loved law enforcer in the country," depending upon who is talking.

A few months before he was called here, the sheriff at Golconda sent for him. The sheriff feared to arrest a father and son who were considered "bad actors."

Young grew tired of waiting in ambush. He walked into the house just as the "bad actors" opened fire on him. Young killed them both, and he was not injured.

The townspeople presented him with $600.

They made quite a stir over Young in Georgia a few years ago when alone he stalked three murderers into the mountains, broke into a cabin, arrested and disarmed his men, ate breakfast with them and then marched them to jail.

The Bill Hart type of a two-gun man is not quite followed in Young's case. He is not silent. Without being a braggart, he is a talker. Whoever is with Young must listen.

He is 5 feet, 7 inches tall; of wiry athletic build, slightly bowlegged. His street corner manner is mild but grim. His eyes are bluish gray, of mournful expression, his hair is getting thin, and from his right ear down the jaw runs a four-inch scar which he says "he didn't get from shaving."

He is 40; was born in Phillips county, Kansas; studied medicine; ranched in Texas and adopted man hunting as a profession.

Young will put one of the pearl-handled, long-barreled, blue-steel automatics on his hip and say, "I can knock 'em over at 600 yards with this sweetheart."

The guns he carried sag an inch or two below his coat. Always visible, always handy.

And in Herrin streets today—klansmen proudly wearing stars, home-made of tin, stand on corners. They are Young's police force.

Boy soldiers from Springfield, Decatur and Cairo wear heavy revolvers and carry loaded rifles.

Miners gather at corners and talk in whispers. Leading questions from strangers always bring the answer, "I don't know."

With the klan in control, the anti-klan faction stays at home.

Herrin, with its soldier and civilian guard, is the quietest town in Illinois.

But the backfire of an automobile sends threescore militiamen and klan police on the run. The town is ready for anything that may happen.

Cutting Down Expenses

"What has become of that bad curve just outside of Plunkville?"

"The town did away with it."

"A good idea."

"Yes, it was cheaper to do it than to build a hospital.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Mothers You Can Prevent Children From Taking Cold

Next Time They Come in Wet and "Sniffling" Rub This Vapor Salve over Throat and Chest

When children come in from play with feet wet, noses blue and hands like lumps of ice, you feel sure that they are "in for a cold."

But the next time try Vicks. At bedtime rub this vaporizing salve well in over throat and chest and cover with a warm flannel cloth.

The body heat releases the ingredients—Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Juniper Tar, etc.—in the form of vapors, and these vapors go directly to the air passages, stimulating the mucous membrane to repel germ attacks.

At the same time Vicks increases the circulation of the blood thruout the chest section, thus helping to prevent any congestion developing.

If applied in time, Vicks will prevent many colds from getting a start and its use doesn't disturb the child's digestion as constant internal dosing is so apt to do.
